Master's in International Business Engineering

Finmeccanica invites high potential graduates to join its Master's in International Business Engineering to become world-class professionals in the areas of Project Management, International Sales, Technology and Operation Management. The Fhink Master trains talents to manage long-term, highly complex international programs that require multi-dimensional skills.

The Master's Programme combines an intensive path of full-time learning and development activities with an internship in one of the Finmeccanica Group Operating Companies. It will be taught in English and held in Rome (Italy).

After successfully completed our Master's, students will have the opportunity to join our Group.
